

Time to start Spring cleaning

March in NC means warmer weather is on the way.

And it's time to start the Spring cleaning chores. Time to clean out, open up and get ready for Summer!

Pest Prevention - insects, not relatives.

- Deep cleaning kitchen cabinets & pantries (check for weevils and moths)
- Sealing gaps before ants and termites become active
- Cleaning gutters to prevent mosquito breeding
- Inspecting crawl spaces after winter moisture

Pollen Prep - Are you ready for the Yellow?

- Clean HVAC filters
- Wash window screens
- Vacuum baseboards and ceiling fans
- Store heavy winter blankets and coats

Pantry Refresh - toss those holiday cooking wish list items.

- Checking expiration dates
- Transferring dry goods to airtight containers
- Wiping shelves with vinegar solution
- Looking for signs of pantry pests

Yard, Garden, and Shed - Reclaim your outdoor space!

- Organize gardening tools
- Dispose of old chemicals properly
- Check for rodent or spider activity
- Store pet food in sealed containers
- Power wash patios
- Clean outdoor furniture
- Inspect decks for winter damage
- Check screens for tears before mosquito season

Sock Monkeys have their own day!

National Sock Monkey Day

A fun little blend of folk art and kitsch, sock monkeys are simple and delightful toys that represent a bygone era. The ideal representation of repurposing and hand-crafting, sock monkeys offer a fun and silly reason to celebrate National Sock Monkey Day, a day dedicated to the charm of making something memorable out of something ordinary.

Sock monkeys have a way of feeling both homemade and iconic at the same time. They can be goofy or sweet, scruffy or perfectly stitched, and they somehow manage to look expressive even when they are basically a sock with arms. That lovable simplicity is exactly the point. National Sock Monkey Day spotlights creativity, thriftiness, and the special kind of nostalgia that comes from a toy made by hand.
